

Surrogacy Helping In Creating Families

ART Technique

Surrogacy as a form of Assisted Reproductive Technique (ART) is helping couples who are unable to give birth through traditional or natural reproduction methods in having their own child so that their families are extended for generations to come. Surrogacy comes as a boon for those couples who want to share the fruits of parenthood even though they themselves may not be able to conceive in a natural way. Surrogacy in simple terms can be defined as a form of Assisted Reproductive Technique (ART) in which a woman or surrogate carries a child in her uterus on behalf of a couple.

Baby conceived through in Vitro Fertilization

Surrogacy has resulted in creating the concept of universal unity through which humans are able to evolve further without the evils of race, religion, sex and color. Surrogacy has taken its roots way back in the month of July.1978 when Louis Brown was born as the world's first baby conceived through in vitro fertilization (IVF). IVF from then onwards has become a standard technique through which doctors/lab technicians could create embryos with eggs from any person and implant them in any healthy woman's uterus with surrogacy promising an entirely new way of having children.

Creating families through surrogacy treatment

The global surrogacy industry as of now is valued more than $10 billion with countries in Asian continent such as India becoming the hot platform for surrogate mothers. Surrogacy has allowed humans to go beyond their familial ties of natural motherhood and fatherhood and in breaking the barriers of societal norms. Preliminary studies undertaken at Cambridge University opined a positive picture of relationship formed between surrogates and the families they helped to create. Woman choosing to become a surrogate mother helps in creating a new relationship, many of these relationships flourish, and as such, surrogacy is valued and enjoyed by surrogates and sustained over time.

Surrogacy has now become a well-established and widely accepted norm of building a family. Research studies carried on surrogacy point out that most of the surrogates' own children had a positive view of their mother's involvement in surrogacy and about half were in contact with the surrogacy child all of whom have good relationship with him or her. The other factor to note down is that the children of surrogate mothers do not experience any negative consequences because of their mother's decision to be a surrogate irrespective of the type of surrogacy their mother has accepted.

Surrogacy as such has now become a norm or option for all types of families seeking to bring children into their lives. The best place that emerged for couples intending to become parents through surrogacy is India where commercial surrogacy is legal and quite cheap. Through surrogacy, the world has become a global village indeed with more and more people becoming part of a unified family united by surrogate mothers. Surrogacy has helped countries in easing the emigration laws allowing childless couples to build up their families through surrogacy.
